Enthusiasts Eri-Canadians had intensive discussions in downtown Toronto before fruition into a brand new Eritrean national organization that would see itself as a renaissance to fix the numerous problems of the opposition camp of Toronto, from halting the anti-Isayas zeal and motion to lose of genuine democratic principles within the movement of Toronto.

The Eri-Canadians are fed up with the way Toronto opposition has been heading in recent periods and have mutually agreed, that it is essential to create an alternative organization to salvage the anti-Isayas front. Based on this theme, they've created their own inaugural organization

The Eri-Cas also agreed that other opposition organizations of Toronto have full right to exercise their own national endeavours, however any future joint actions with them would require principled agreements and affirmations on "Popular and democratic values (ህዝባዊን ደሞክራሲያዊን ረብሐታት)" according Ato lyob Menghistu, one of the founders.

Today, they've set the motion forward of their new organization. Other phases are to follow.
